Public Schools Week

Public Schools Week (March 12-16) celebrates the achievements of our public schools and the critical roles they play in developing future generations of successful students. As part of Public Schools Week, 50 national organizations including National PTA issued a joint statement in support of public education to promote the positive impact public schools have on our nation's young people and the communities they live in. Show your support of public schools using the sample tweets and Facebook posts below.

During #PublicSchoolsWeek I celebrate the many school professionals who work directly with families to help students reach their full potential.

I support #PublicSchoolsWeek because strengthening our public schools is the best way to ensure our children's future success and our country's prosperity. #LovePublicEducation

Everyone in our school community—teachers, parents, principals, superintendents and more—plays a critical role in helping students succeed. #PublicSchoolsWeek

I #LovePublicEducation because #PublicSchools recognize the unique talents and needs of each student and offer a wide range of services that support the total child.

I #LovePublicEducation because #PublicSchools recognize the unique talents and needs that each student brings (including and beyond academic needs), and offer a wide range of services that support the total child. #PublicSchools will educate you no matter how well you read, how much money your family has, the language you speak, or what you believe.
