

Be Internet Awesome Family Workshop – Strong Volunteer Guide

READ:

- Look over this entire sheet, including the bonus resources below, before the event starts
- Make sure everyone in your group has a family guide before you begin the activity
- Give your group two minutes to read through your section of the family guide (pages 14-17)

SHARE:

- Instruct your group to turn to their neighbor and share a new password-creating tip they liked in the family guide.
- Instruct members of the group to work with their partner to use the tips to create a new password.
- Instruct your group to use HowSecureisMyPassword.net on their phones to test the strength of their new password.

ASK:

- As a whole group, work together to complete the sentence “An internet strong kid will...”. Write your answer on the large sheet of sticky paper.
- As a whole group, work together to complete the sentence “An internet strong kid does not...”. Write your answer on the large sheet of sticky paper.
- Ask for one volunteer to represent the group and present the poster that you created.

BONUS:

- Your Goal:
 - Create a community definition of Being Internet Strong and an example of how to write a good password.
- Key Family Take-Aways:
 - Understand how to create passwords that are hard to guess but easy to remember
 - Recognize the importance of sharing passwords only with parents or guardians
- Next Step:
 - Start a short conversation with your kid tonight by asking them what being internet strong means to them.
