NATIONAL PTA PROGRAMS IN PERSON AND AT HOME

What Model Do You Want to Use for Your Program?

National PTA programs are designed to meet busy caregivers and families where they are, whether In Person or At Home. To do that, we have designed two models for running your Math Night program: In Person, and At Home, Real Time. Choose what works best for you and your school community!

In Person
- Partner with your local Mathnasium Math Center.
- Events are in person at the school or in a community location. They build conversation, community, and learning.
- This program has engaging resources such as family handouts and a PTA Leader guide.
- Your PTA facilitates the programming (in partnership with your local Mathnasium Math Center) and is responsible for bringing food, program materials and handouts to the program location.
- CDC and local public health guidance must be followed.

At Home: Real-Time
- Partner with your local Mathnasium Math Center.
- Programs are live, virtual events conducted through a platform like Zoom or Google Meets. They build conversation, community, and learning online.
- This model gives families a chance to participate “together” even virtually. It uses Mathnasium Math Center games, activities, and handouts and PTA leader guide providing tips and guidance for PTAs on how to partner with your local Mathnasium Math Center.
- Participants are encouraged to share their experiences via social media and PTA newsletters to continue to foster a sense of community and shared success.
